Art Appreciation

Course Description:

This course introduces the student to the technical, aesthetic and historical achievements of architecture, sculpture, and painting. Through slide lectures, museum visits and assigned readings the course will encourage an analysis of the visual elements used in the fine arts (such as color, line, shape, texture, and principles of design). In addition, students will investigate the purposes of art and visual communication and develop a heightened sense of critical thinking that allows them to investigate successfully different modes of representation, styles, and media in a multicultural society.

General Education approved course (Gen Ed):

The General Education Program at UMass Lowell fosters active learning by asking students to think critically, communicate effectively and embrace cultural diversity. This course will emphasize the following learning outcomes:

- Breadth of knowledge: Students must demonstrate familiarity with several different areas of knowledge and several different modes of inquiry; in this course we will use paintings, sculpture, primary and secondary texts, and film to broaden our knowledge of the visual arts.
- Critical thinking: Students must demonstrate the ability to synthesize information, discover connections, differentiate between facts and opinions, assess evidence, draw conclusions, construct arguments on both sides of a debate using the best available evidence, solve problems, develop and test hypotheses. In this course we will strengthen critical thinking through in-class discussion, written papers and essay exams that draw upon the works of art, written texts, and class lectures.
- Clear communication: Students must demonstrate the ability to communicate effectively: to articulate, support, and defend a position using appropriate modes of communication. In this class students will practice clear communication through in-class discussion and written assignments.

- Information literacy: Students must demonstrate the ability both to use appropriate media to gather information relative to their major field and to access reliable general information. In this course students will learn how art objects—paintings, sculpture, architecture—can serve as “media” for information about a culture as well as learn to use traditional forms of media such as texts and appropriate websites and databases.

Class Comportment:

Students are expected to exhibit professional and respectful behavior that is conducive to a mutually beneficial learning environment in the classroom. Inappropriate behavior includes: eating, drinking, conversing, receiving phone calls, text messaging, late arrivals, early departures, disrespectful comments, intentional disruptions, and using your laptop for other than class purposes. Students are not permitted to tape the lectures without the permission of the instructor. Disabled students must see me on the first day of class so that individual needs can be accommodated.

Course Requirements:

Readings: Course textbook: M. Getlein, Gilbert’s Living With Art, Eleventh Edition.

Examinations: There will be three exams for this course. The dates are noted on the “Lecture Schedule.” The exams are each worth 25% of your final grade.

Paper: There will be one paper for this course. The due date is noted on the “Lecture Schedule.” The paper is worth 25% of your final grade.

NOTE: Examinations missed without prior arrangements with the instructor or a written excuse for medical or other emergencies cannot be made up. No electronic mail, fax, telephone, or voice mail is acceptable. If you miss an exam, be sure to speak with me about it. All assignments for this course must be completed.

Attendance: Attendance will be taken regularly. Any student who has more than two unexcused absences may find their grade lowered proportionally. Three tardy arrivals will equal one absence.

Class Participation: There will be daily opportunity to contribute meaningfully to class discussions; THIS IS HIGHLY ENCOURAGED and can help your final grade.
